

You are invited to attend:
THE GAME OF LOGGING

ATV & Tractor Small-scale Yarding Course

This training program is for woodland owners and workers who want to extract trees from their property safely and without the use of expensive professional logging equipment. With the use of an ATV, small tractor, arch, or something that can pull a tree, the wood can be pulled out in a low impact manner, with little or no residual damage to the property.

The program focuses on choosing the right equipment and how to use it safely. Game of Logging instructors will demonstrate the use of the equipment, how to set up an ATV for working in a woodlot with safety as top priority.

Using the tools and the techniques offered in this program, woodland owners and workers will have the confidence and knowledge to safely and comfortably work in the woods.

For any landowner who is considering buying their own small-scale logging equipment, this training course is a must!

Instructor Profile:

Instructor: Ken Lallemond - Timber Resources

As a certified Safety Trainer, Ken has been training groups and individuals in chainsaw safety and precision felling since 1992. Along the way, he was privileged to work with and receive training from Soren Eriksson, who established an internationally known safety training program 'Game of Logging'.

Currently Ken works with loggers, landowners, arborists, college students, city groups, emergency medical technicians, power companies and other chainsaw users to improve their skills, knowledge of tools, and understanding of tree felling dynamics. He adjusts each program to meet the needs and experience levels of individuals and companies.

For more information on Ken's experience and details on the Game of Logging training series, please see www.ken-lallemond.com.
